PARTNER INFORMATION

My research focuses on bullying victimization among children youth and young adults, especially online bullying – known as cyberbullying. During the last years I have also examined in my studies the phenomenon of Problematic Internet Use (PIU) among children and adolescents. My studies explores mostly the emotional and social aspects of these behaviors among victims as well as examining the role of bystanders in episodes of bullying and CB.

Currently, I am involved in various national and international research groups regarding cyberbullying patterns and influences, victimization around Europe, and child abuse and neglect (an international research group that address to a Multi- Sectoral Responses to Child Abuse and Neglect in Europe: Incidence and trends).

Aside the research, I am involved in developing and evaluating national and international prevention and intervention programs for coping with online victimization targeting students, parents, families and school teams.

I am Experienced in EU projects at national and international level. Have been involved in various EU projects and COST actions addressing my research topics such as: Cyberbullying, Victictimology, Child abuse and developing prevention and intervention programs focusing on bystanders role.

- Strong national and international academic network.
